redox flow battery market is expected to grow from $1.8 billion in 2018 to $370 million by 2025, at an annual growth rate of 10.5%, according to a report from China-based QY Research.

North America and the Asia-Pacific are the two largest markets for redox flow batteries, with North America accounting for 35% of the global installation capacity in the world, according to the report. China is expected to account for more than 80% of all flow battery deployments in 2025. The report was third with a market share of a little more than 10%.

The report's scalability and longer-duration capacity make it a more cost-efficient, Peter Klauer, a senior advisor at the California Independent System Operator, said in a Utility Dive in May.
